

I feel so bad...
For all the kids that had no Hallowe'en!

We went out a week or so ago and bought our normal 5 kilos of wrapped candies for the kids as we always have... it was just about dark when the first kids showed up (with their parents) all dressed up and we really loaded them up... some of the little ones didn't have bags so my wife got a bunch of bags for them too. The ones that did come had fun and got big time treats! Thanks Covid worriers for nothing!

So, she and her best friend Natalie travel up to Lunenburg to see the home and to find out as much as she can about her husband's mysterious dealings in the lovely coastal village. What follows is a series of twists and turns, love and laughter... and a winsome neighbor named Charlie.

Well I truly wonder what the “Powers That Be” will cancel next to make people’s lives a little more miserable, socially and financially... I knew all kinds of kids that got polio in that “real” epidemic but with the literally 100’s of people I am in touch with today... don’t know of one person ill and suffering with this virus. We’re being controlled people!

Have a great week and please drive careful and if you see me out anywhere... WAVE! lol

See you somewhere... SOON!

Regards,
Francis Dryden
