

This came up in a conversation the other day!

I was having lunch with a fellow the other day and we were talking about the sound being “echoey” in most of the clubs and large rooms for and with entertainment.

I suggested to him that a lot of the entertainers use too much reverberation (echo if you like) on amps and PA systems... sound is very hard to control but the reverberation is NOT.

It’s not always that the band is too loud... it has a lot to do with how much reverb is being used. I see some big rooms sitting empty that would make a great venue but all anyone has heard there is too much reverb!

"Bluegrass & Beyond" w/ Jeffree White & Jan Reimers

duo w/ guitar, mandolin & vocals Tuesdays 11:30am-1:30pm

at the Huerto Cafe; Hidalgo 212 in Riberas del Pilar

Expert mandolinist Jan Reimers has performed weekly at the Huerto for about a year, accompanied by several of the area's best talents; now he joins forces with newcomer multi-instrumentalist Jeffree White, who founded and led bluegrass collective Train River and gypsy jazz group Hot Club of Hawthorne in Portland, OR.

Expect a mix of instrumental & vocal music, with different flavors inspired by David Grisman's "Dawg music", vintage swing, fiddle tunes, beautiful waltzes, some classic rock, and traditional bluegrass with vocal harmonies -- and plenty of lively, hot pickin'!
